PREFACE

The following list of books of Jewish interest in the Library of the University of Illinois has been prepared with the object of calling the attention of students at the University to the books at present accessible, many of which are of necessity scattered in different parts of the library buildings. It is intended to issue in time an annotated list containing brief statements as to the character and value of the books. The present list will serve provisionally as a guide to readers. It will also be of use in indicating deficiencies which it is most desirable to supply. The entire absence of sets of the principal Jewish journals forms the most serious of these gaps.

The nucleus of the somewhat miscellaneous body of books listed has been formed by the B'nai B'rith Library of Jewish Literature, a collection bought during the past year with funds provided by the generosity of District Grand Lodge No. 6, of the Independent Order of B'nai B'rith. In addition to the books belonging to this collection, the library has received a number of gifts, some of considerable value, from private individuals, for the most part members of the Order mentioned. There are included also a number of books purchased by the University.

The list is intentionally incomplete in several important respects. The large and interesting collection of books relating to the Bible has been omitted, being rendered sufficiently accessible through the subject entries in the library catalogue. A number of modern Jewish writers who have attained sufficient prominence for their works to be familiar to the general reader have likewise been omitted; the names of such men as Heine, Disraeli, Franzos, and Henri Bernstein do not appear in the list, though the library contains in several instances a good number of books by them and about them.

The list is restricted to bound books and pamphlets. Much of the Jewish material referred to in general periodical indexes, such as Poole and the Readers' Guide, is available to students of the University. The Library receives the current numbers of the following Jewish periodicals: American Hebrew, American Israelite, B'nai B'rith News, Jewish Chronicle, Jewish Comment, Jewish Farmer, Jewish Review, Maccabaeon, and Monatsschrift für die Geschichte und Wissenschaft des Judentums.

Acknowledgments for aid in drawing up this list are due to a number of students and others, especially Mr. A. L. Epstein.

September, 1913.
